A rare treat is in store for the citizens of DeLand tonight at the auditorium. The incomparable "Quakers," the best in the South, will give one of their unique, masterful programs of song and mirth, in a way that satisfies the most fastidious critic. There is no music so soul-satisfying as that rendered by a good male quartette, and the "Quakers" are fully the equal if not the superior of the Chicago Glee Club that so delighted our citizens two years ago. The Quakers sang at Gainesville last year early in the season, and so pleased their hearers that they received a second call, and made that town another visit later in the year. All who hear them are loud in praises of their sweetness, harmony, comic portrayals and beautifully modulated, blended voices.
